

Breaking news 3/13/23... Jakobi Meyers says in interview, "After signing with the Patriots for the 2023 season and starting to be at the midway point of my career, I think it's smart to save some money. So any and all players help me out."

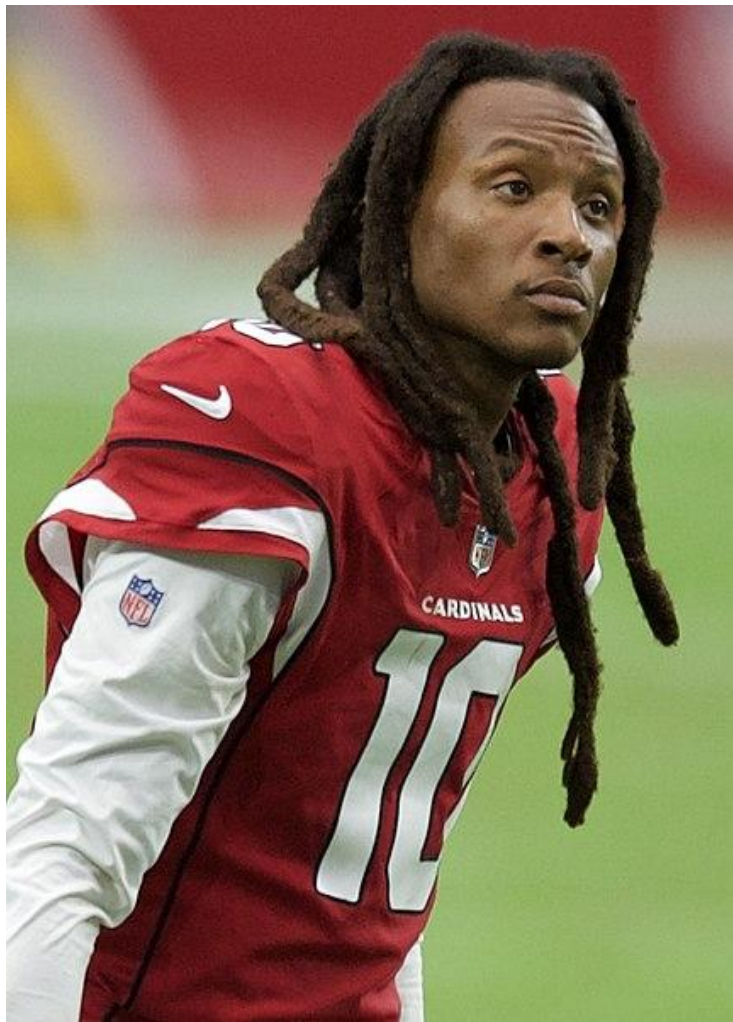

A week later the Veteran wide receiver came out in press conference heated, “Everyone's telling me the worst ways to spend my money or at least the least fun. Im taking my money and betting it all on red 7 after every season... Gotta hit once!” Reporters had a multitude of things to say but Jakobi left immediately.

But then when the time came to it and Jakobi put 5 million on red 7... Ball came up on black 8... Jakobi felt like he was hit by a truck and just went home to sleep it off.

When suddenly, Mac Jones from the future comes in the middle of the night like Ebenezer Scrooge. Mac was wearing 4 super bowl rings and said he was from the year 2027, that's right 4 in a row were Macs first words. Then proceed to say, "Come meet my friend if you want to protect your financial future."

Then Deandre Hopkins from the future appears, wearing the same superbowl rings mac has. Deandre Talks highly of a budgeting app that can turn a profit on the money you put in and gives you updates to see how well your money is doing. Dhop said, “ no more red 7, the 2023 off season you guys acquired me, red 10, and that's all you needed to win the super bowl.”

When Jakobi woke up he thought he couldn't remember the apps name until he took out bread and butter for toast in the morning. He then screamed, "BREAD & BUTTER BUDGETING!" From that day on he was always financially stable. NOTE: this is an old picture New superbowl pics will come...

